Planning Your Special Event at the Florence Griswold Museum

A PERFECT PLACE FOR FRIENDS TO GATHER

Located on the banks of the Lieutenant River in Old Lyme, CT, the Florence Griswold Museum offers a captivating setting for your special event. Come see what drew the American Impressionist artists to paint en plein air—in the open air—along the river or in our gardens. You'll be as charmed as they were by the beauty of the landscape.

Centrally located between New York and Boston, Old Lyme has been a favorite meeting ground for over a century. Since 1899, when artists first began staying at "Miss Florence's" boarding house, visitors have been enchanted by the picturesque shoreline, rolling pastures, and quintessential New England village setting that is Old Lyme.

The Museum is located in the heart of the village's historic district and is easily accessible from I-95. It is home to one of America's most famous art colonies and the best-known center of Impressionist painting. This historic site encompasses 11 acres along the Lieutenant River, the 1817 Griswold House and Museum, the Hartman Education Center, gardens, a restored artist's studio, and the modern Kriebel Gallery.

WEDDINGS ON THE ADRIAN P. MOORE GARDEN TERRACE

The Garden Terrace is an ideal location for weddings between April and October. Situated behind the Kriebel Gallery and adjacent to Marshfield, the Terrace offers a private setting for a wedding, overlooking the river. Your guests can enjoy cocktails on the veranda and lawns of Marshfield before moving under the tent for dinner and dancing. The Museum provides the use of the modern bathroom facilities (handicapped accessible) in the Kriebel Gallery and you provide the tent, tables and chairs, dance floor, dinner and glassware, and linens. A Bride's Dressing Room is available and you are welcome to have your photographs taken in the gardens, or along the river.

PRIVATE PARTIES AT MARSHFIELD

Why not rent Marshfield for your next party? Marshfield is a large Colonial Revival house on the grounds of the Florence Griswold Museum. Formerly a private home, the house offers three beautifully appointed rooms, all overlooking the river. In warm weather your guests can spill out onto the veranda surrounding the house and the lawn sweeping down to the water. Cocktail parties can include up to 75 people, with outside use in warm weather. Seated dinners can be held for up to 32 people, using the living room as dining space and the other rooms for cocktails. Use of the kitchen is available to your caterer, and the Museum is happy to provide a list of caterers, rental companies and a florist for your information.

PLANNING YOUR BUSINESS EVENT

The Florence Griswold Museum is pleased to offer the availability of Marshfield House for business meetings and seminars. Marshfield overlooks the Lieutenant River and has four meeting rooms available for your use. The setting is an ideal one for your company's offsite whole or half-day meetings, with two rooms for dining and/or break out sessions, a meeting room which can accommodate 25 comfortably around a table or 45 set in the theatre style, and a smaller meeting room with a table large enough for 12. A power point or slide projector and screen, as well as flip charts are provided. Catering can be provided in Marshfield's well-equipped kitchen by outside caterers.

Business meetings can also be held in the Hartman Education Center. Fashioned as a post and beam barn this creative space is perfect for retreats and teambuilding sessions for up to 40 adults.

COMPANY PARTIES

Why not rent Marshfield for your next company party? Marshfield is a large Colonial Revival house on the grounds of the Florence Griswold Museum.
